

Annual Meeting Learns of Club's Deficit

Canadian Hockey Club Will Carry on With New Members Added to Former Executive—Will Raise Money to Meet Deficit of Over $1,000

Canadians held their annual meeting on Sunday evening and it was so well attended that the accommodation of the council chamber was taxed to the limit. President Frank Abousafy was in the chair.

Secretary Fred Guedard read the minutes and the financial report, the latter showing a deficit on the season's activities of $1,055.19. President Abousafy stated he regretted having to present a report showing such a deficit, but that he was sure hockey fans were well aware of the condition. The executive had to contend with. It was unfortunate that the club had been a losing one, and in addition small "gates" had added to their financial difficulties. He disliked leaving office with a deficit and suggested that the old executive remain in office until the deficit had been wiped out. However, the meeting, after discussion, elected additional members to work with the former executive.

Thirteen names were nominated to be voted on. The four having the largest number of votes to remain on the executive for two years and the three with the lowest number for one year. The results showed F. Abousafy, A. F. Short, Geo. Burchell and S. Murdoch elected for two years, and J. Park, A. Gentile and R. Graham for one year. George Kellock was elected honorary president and H. C. McBurney, honorary vice-president. A vote of thanks was given to the retiring executive.

An artificial ice plant was again discussed. Harry Gardner stated that in his opinion $2,000 was needed to repair the roof alone and $16,000 required for installing the plant and equipment. Due to the war these figures might be a little low. In an effort to finance the artificial ice plant he suggested that efforts should be made every wage-earner in town to put a month towards payment of the plant for a period of three years and also 25c per month towards its upkeep. By this means children would be afforded free skating two or three nights a week and all hockey teams would have sufficient practice during the year. Secretary Fred Guedard spoke up and quoted from his financial statement that had Coleman had an artificial ice plant last year the club would have shown a profit on the year's activities, as it took over a thousand dollars for pre-season training.

H. C. McBurney, who had been a silent spectator during the debate, spoke up and stated that before anything could be done to the arena consent would have to be given by the arena shareholders. He promised to hold a meeting of the shareholders and report back to a committee composed of H. H. Gardner, R. Spillers, J. A. McDonald and W. Fraser, sr. This committee was empowered to call a public meeting after receiving Mr. McBurney's report.

Executive of Canadians hockey club have sponsored a raffle for $100 cash prizes. The purpose of the raffle is to wipe out the deficit on last season's operations. Everyone's help is urged to make the draw a success.

E. G. Hansell and E. O. Duke Review Four Years Record of Social Credit Government

E. O. Duke and Ernest Hansell, provincial and federal candidates, respectively, in the forthcoming elections, opened their campaign in Coleman on Tuesday evening in the community hall. Mr. Tom Lawlor was chairman. E. Rees, of Hillcrest, one of the defeated nominees before the Social Credit advisory board, was also on the stage. Approximately 100 were in attendance.

Mr. Duke gave a resume of the Social Credit government's legislation during the past five years. He told of the financial interests' opposition of an empty treasury, nine millions of dollars in savings certificates entrusted to the government previous to the election of the old line parties who is now running under a different cloak for the purpose of ousting Alberta.

In his two hours speech, Mr. Duke also dealt with the reduced debt of the province, fire insurance undertaken by the province, and also on hard-surfaced roads, 78 miles being hard-surfaced before the advent of Social Credit, now 669 miles were hard-surfaced. He scored the Independent candidate, C. J. Tompkins, as a member of the old line parties who is now running under a different cloak for the purpose of ousting Alberta.

In opening his address, Ernest Hansell stated this was his first public meeting in Coleman since his election five years ago. In his opinion the federal election had been called because Mackenzie King had been afraid to face the music. He gave several illustrations of the Liberal government's spendthrift ways. It had been rumored that Premier King was going to bring down a billion-dollar budget, but to do so and then go to the people was committing political suicide, hence the election.

He read extracts from evidence given by Graham Towers, governor of the Bank of Canada, before parliament, where the state could create its own money.

Joe Shaw's remarks of "Kick the Rascale Out" came in for much laughter.

Social Credit were anxious to have legislation to take care of the aftermath of war, which they felt was as important as the winning of the war.

E. Rees, in his remarks, stated C. J. Tompkins stood no chance of winning, and that the Liberal and Conservative forces showed their dumbness in opposing Social Credit. Of course with Social Credit all well that he has to pay more for banking services than formerly, in order to meet these taxes which foolish people say do not cost anybody anything.

CONSERVATIVE CANDIDATE MACLEOD CONSTITUENCY

GRIER RIDER DAVIS, National Conservative candidate for Macleod Federal Constituency, has lived in Southern Alberta practically all his life. His father, the late D. W. Davis, came to Alberta in 1870 and was the first Federal member for Alberta from 1888 to 1896. His mother was also of a pioneer family, being the daughter of the late James Grier and a sister of George Grier and the late D. J.
Grier, pioneer ranchers and wheat growers of the Macleod district.

As a boy, Mr. Davis accompanied the family to the Yukon and lived there from 1897 to 1903 during the Gold Rush days. From 1903 to 1906 he attended Upper Canada College at Toronto, and then returned to Macleod. He was actively engaged in farming for about fifteen years and still owns the old homestead on the Belly River where the late Frank Strong and D. W. Davies operated a horse ranch in the eighties and early nineties.

He was Sheriff and Clerk of the Supreme Court of the Judicial District of Macleod from 1924 to 1934 when he resigned to take over the law practice of Joseph D. Matheson, K.C., who was elevated to the Bench. He has been practising law in Macleod from 1934 to the present time. He served on the town council for two years and was elected mayor in 1939. He is married and has one son. In Federal politics he has been a Conservative; in provincial politics he has been an active part in the U.F.A. movement and was official agent for the late W. H. Shield in 1921 and 1935. He is well acquainted with conditions in the Macleod districts that he will support all legislation beneficial to agriculture, coal mining and the oil industry in his constituency.

WEIR HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

discovered in the attic. The blaze was quickly extinguished and inspection failed to reveal cause of the blaze.

contested game.

The teams were scoreless at the end of the first and were again deadlocked 1-1 at the end of the second. In the third Italians showed greater power, Ondirk Smith, Lowe and Johnson denting the line twice behind the Elk goalie.

SOCIAL CREDIT NONSENSE
This silly talk of Mr. Duke and other S.C. candidates about taxing the banks and the big shot is so much twaddle. The consumer pays the increased taxes, and the banks do the same with what they call well what he has to pay more for banking services than formerly, in order to meet these taxes which foolish people say do not cost anybody anything.

Pincher Creek Farmers Wrath Over Taxation

Will Support C. J. Tompkins as Independent Provincial Election on March 21

COLEMAN, March. — "The educational department is the most autocratic machine in the province," stated Earl G. Cook, former U.F.A. member for Pincher Creek, before a farmers' rally in the community hall at Pincher station.

Not only by means of the enlarged school districts, with elimination of local trustees, but in the matter of teacher contracts, local boards had no say whatever, and the teaching profession was now a closed shop whereby no teacher could obtain a certificate unless he or she became a member of the Alberta Teachers' Alliance. Educational methods in the country schools as far as the experience of farmers in this district is concerned have not shown the least improvement, while taxes have been increased 100 per cent.

If the Aberhart government was returned, he predicted that eventually the department of education would become so autocratic that even the limited number of trustees now allowed might be replaced by official trustees, and the farmers would have no say whatever, while taxes would probably further increase. In fact he stated he had been advised that in addition to the 100 per cent increase now in force, amounting to ten mills on the assessment, it might be increased to 16 mills. And this from a government which had promised lower taxation on assuming office.

Noel Cox, a prominent farmer of over 30 years in the district, admitted that in 1935, he with many others felt that with the promises then made to the electors, the Social Credit party might at least be given a chance to prove its worth, but after four and a half years it was evident that in face of ever increasing taxation and the payment of large sums to commissions for work which should be done by the cabinet ministers, none of these promises would ever be made good. He had been a close observer of school district affairs, having at various times served on the trustees' board, and despite all the reputed benefits of the enlarged school unit, he could see no difference whatever in the local rural schools.

Both speakers advocated the return of Independent candidates, urging the electors to support C.
J. Tompkins. The latter thanked the meeting for the expression of confidence towards him and assured them he would give considerable time towards becoming better acquainted with their problems, so that if elected he would be able to represent their views in the legislature.

A. M. Denmore, of Lundbreck, in a short address, stated that after listening to the grievances expressed, in which he wholeheartedly concurred, if the people of this province were so short-sighted as to return to power the Aberhart government, then, in the words of the premier, was their God-given right to suffer more.

C. J. Bundy, of Cowley, was chairman.

ITALIAN LODGE CELEBRATES 34th ANNIVERSARY

Coleman Italian Society celebrated its 34th anniversary on Saturday evening in the Italian hall with a large number of guests present from neighboring towns.
The Grand Lodge officers from Fernie were also present.

The lodge was first started at Lille in 1906 and when the mine there shut down and Lille became a "ghost town" the lodge was moved to Coleman, where it has flourished ever since.

Venerable John D'Ambra welcomed the guests. He was followed by other speakers, among whom was Mayor John D'Appolonia.

Dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by everyone and the lodge's 34th anniversary will go down in lodge records as a memorable occasion.

Chemistry In Agriculture

The current year marks two events of more than passing interest and importance to the agricultural industry of Canada, for 1940 is the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of the chemical fertilizer industry in Great Britain, and January of this year brought to a close the life of Dr. Frank Thomas Shutt, C.B.E., who for nearly half a century, as Dominion chemist labored to make available to the farmers of this country the benefits of higher yields and greater profits through the application of scientific fertilizing methods.

To date the use of chemical fertilizers has not been applied by Western Canadian farmers on a wide scale as a means of increasing yields of cereal crops, but a new factor has arisen which may serve as a stimulus to the utilization of chemicals to promote more rapid and vigorous growth and to increase yields. Reference is made to the fact that this year's grain crop in Canada is likely to be produced under conditions of greater demand due to the exigencies of war, always providing, of course, that the war does not collapse within the next month or two, a probability which appears to be somewhat remote at the time of writing.

Although comparatively few farmers in Western Canada are using chemicals on a considerable scale, it is now generally recognized that, under certain soil and climatic conditions, earlier maturity and greater yields can be induced by the judicious use of chemical fertilizers. The farmer, however, has to be something of a chemist himself, if he is to be able to see the maximum benefit, which may be derived from their application to the crops. For instance, he should know something of the chemical composition of the soil in which his crops are grown. He should know the constituents in which his soil are deficient and should make a study of weather and moisture content conditions, so that he will know when it will be profitable to apply artificial stimulants to his grain and when it will not pay him to do so.

Value Is Variable

Practical farmers have found, for instance, that during dry years it does not pay to apply chemical fertilizers to the crops except in the earlier stages of their growth while there is sufficient spring moisture in the soil to render them readily soluble. At this stage, growth is hastened, resulting in earlier maturity. If drought continues throughout the growing season, farmers have found that later applications do not further stimulate growth or increase yields, and in some cases they are actually a detriment. This, it is believed, is due to the fertilizer remaining too concentrated to benefit the plant.

Students of agriculture learn that the complete fertilizer consists of three principal constituents — nitrogen, phosphorous and potash. Technical agriculturists recognize that, generally speaking, the soil in the northern bush areas of the three provinces is deficient in nitrogen and this lack is believed to be due to the leaching of the soil by rains. The principal deficiency in the southern areas of these provinces is said to be phosphorous, and the blame for lack of phosphorous is expressed in the belief that continuous cropping to cereals has exhausted the land of phosphates. These, of course are generalities and may vary greatly in individual districts and on individual farms, depending upon conditions, the nature of the soil, the use to which it has been put and the methods of farming which have been followed.

Great Strides Made

From Europe, in 1888, one year after he was appointed Dominion chemist, the late Mr. Shutt brought back to this country the discovery made in that year by Helmholz and Wilfirth of Borsburg, Saxony, that leguminous plants are able to extract nitrogen from the air, though the need of nitrogen in the soil to stimulate the growth of plants of other orders was recognized as long ago as 1795. It was in 1840, however, that Lawes discovered at Rothamsted, England, that superphosphates, which he produced by treating old bones with sulphuric acid, would stimulate the growth of turnips. Two years later he started the world's first fertilizer factory at Deptford, thus founding an industry which has been growing ever since.

As stated by Leonard L. Knott, in "The Oval," house organ of Canadian Industries, Ltd.:

"In 100 years the science of the soil travelled a long way. The modern farmer is no longer a haphazard tiller of the soil, dependent entirely upon a grudging nature. In the laboratories of Great Britain, Europe and Canada scientific allies have been developed and are still being developed to aid his hardened hands. In Canada for instance, in the laboratories of C.I.L. scientific farming is an accepted fact. Industrial chemistry remains true to the land and modern soil chemists carry on the tasks set for them a century ago."

Sky Writer For Finland

Russians May Soon Be Reading New Kind Of Propaganda

Finland will have a new propaganda at its disposal shortly. If the Finns want to make the Russians take notice, "Lucky" Newhouse, a famous stuntsman, is a sky writer may come in handy.

Newhouse, christened Luke by his Dutch parents, has left Canada to join the Finnish air force. He takes with him 450 official hours in the air or about 1,000 unofficial count.

Turned down by the R.C.A.F. because of his eyes, the flying Dutchman offered his abilities to Finland. Montrealers know him for his skywriting and he once operated a flying school. Recently he has been living in Toronto.

As a boy he lived near the German border. He remembers the post-war days when German officials were glad to sell their automatic pistols for a dollar. The result was an epidemic of armaments amongst the Dutch high school students.

Travelling light, Newhouse expects to pick up his equipment somewhere in Scandinavia.

RAISIN PIE

1½ cups seedless raisins
1 cup boiling water
½ cup white sugar
½ cup Bee Hive Golden Corn syrup
4 tablespoons cream or milk
2 tablespoons St. Lawrence or Durham Corn Starch
2 eggs
1 cup butter
2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 teaspoons grated rind
½ teaspoon salt

Cook raisins in water until tender. Take out and drain. Add all the milk and stir in until raisins are well coated. Add corn syrup. Beat eggs, add remainder of sugar, salt and lemon juice. Add to raisins. Cook slightly. Then bake between two crusts in hot oven.

LAYERED PEACH AND RASPBERRY MOLD

1 package Orange or Raspberry Jell-O
1 pint hot water
½ cup canned sliced peaches
1 cup fresh raspberries

Divide Jell-O in hot water. Arrange sliced peaches in bottom of mold. Pour on Jell-O, being careful not to dislodge peaches. Add raspberries. Chill until firm. Unmold in slices and garnish with whipped cream, if desired. Or serve as salad with mayonnaise. Serves 6.

Discover New Mountain Peaks

Noted Explorer Pursues His Hazardous Trek

That intrepid traveller in the snow-lands of the Antarctic, Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, has reported to the United States Navy the discovery of unknown mountain peaks in the vicinity of Marie Byrd Land in the Antarctic.

Admiral Byrd, leader of the United States Government's Antarctic expedition, said the mountains were spotted during a three-hour plane flight. The peaks apparently bordered the northern coast of the area which Byrd first discovered from the air in 1929, the despatch said, adding: "The flight also led to first realization that Sulzberger Bay was larger than previously charted."

The flight also verified the presence of a large bay a few miles east of Cape Colbeck.

Alies Must Not Fail

Former President Of Czechoslovakia Says Nazi Regime Must Go

Edward Benes, former president of Czechoslovakia, said that the Allies must not fail in their duty "mercilessly to do away with the Nazi regime," for which the Germans "as a nation" must accept responsibility.

"There are millions of Germans who do not agree with Nazism, but history teaches us that every state and nation is responsible for its government," the exiled statesman said.

"It is impossible to conceive international relations which will allow a government to destroy its neighbors, plundered and plundered smaller nations, committed the worst crimes, killed hundreds and thousands of its opponents, and finally, when the arm of justice intervened and satisfaction and guarantees were demanded, the new government announced that only members of the former regime were responsible for everything, and that now everything was all right."

Benes said he "proudly acknowledged the Czechoslovak government's responsibility for what went on in the ill-fated central European country during the 20 years of its existence."

The former Czech president declared peace could be ensured only if it is understood that freedom is indivisible. He called for a new system of European solidarity, including guaranteed freedom of the smaller central European states, federal units in the different parts of Europe, a re-created League of Nations, and a fresh system of economic collaboration.

"Events it was impossible to live at peace with Germany," he said. "Czechoslovakia made the terrible sacrifice which it to-day regards as its greatest and fateful task in this war."

Help Red Cross

Cree Indians In Manitoba Are Donating Furs As A Contribution

About 300 hundred Cree Indians, living in the vicinity of Nelson House, Manitoba, a remote trading post more than four hundred miles north of Winnipeg, are making their contributions to Canada's war effort in traditional style. Information received by the Indian Affairs Branch of the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa, as to the manner in which these natives are conducting a drive in aid of the Red Cross reveals that each Indian has been asked to donate the pelt of a furbearing animal, even if only a squirrel or weasel. The furs collected in this manner will be sold to the traders, and the proceeds turned over to the Red Cross.

Fritz Thyssen Exiled From Germany
Gave Nazi Financial Support

If any year must be chosen over Fritz Thyssen, the German whose vast steel industry has been confiscated by the Nazis and who is now a refugee in Switzerland, let them be all glycine tears. Thyssen deserves none of the pity which the pitieth person inclined to give him. Thyssen is a man who sowed the wind and reaped the whirlwind.

If the whirlwind he had a large share in starting affected only himself there might be reason to pity him, but the same whirlwind is the one that is affecting millions of entirely innocent persons all over the world. Thyssen provided financial support for the Nazis at a time when the National Socialist Party would likely have collapsed without it. Thyssen was in the business of making death-dealing weapons at a time when the ordinary people of the world were demanding disarmament. Thyssen was also having labor troubles at a time when the workers of Germany were striving to secure an approximation of the employer-employee relations that exist in democratic countries. Thyssen was Hitler and his Nazis opportunity to create a regime in Germany that would give him all the conditions which he selfishly desired.

He was content with the Nazis while it was bullying and threatening small neighbors. His conversion to anti-Nazism did not occur until the still more ruthless Hitler and Goering robbed the ruthlessness Thyssen.

If as an exile Thyssen has any means or influence to hasten the overthrow of the Hitler regime it would be foolish of the Allies not to accept any genuine aid he can give, but there is no need to become sentimental about it. It will be time enough to do that when he has had a change of character as well as fortune. — Kingston Whig-Standard.

Speech Read At Banquet

Was Prepared By Lord Tweedsmuir For Boy Scouts' Association

The last writings of Lord Tweedsmuir, Canada's late Governor-General, were read at the annual banquet of the Boy Scouts' Association of Canada in Toronto. His Excellency was to address the banquet and his unfinished and uncorrected speech was sent to the association at the direction of Lady Tweedsmuir.

Canada's tremendous wartime effort will place her "in the very forefront" of aeronautical development after the war and supply her with a potentially great peacetime asset in the form of a large body of trained airmen, Lord Tweedsmuir predicted in his speech.

Lord Tweedsmuir suggested linking of Scout training more closely with the practical problems which are facing our growing youth.

"We are giving our Scouts an admirable moral and physical discipline which is the true basis for a worthy and successful life," he wrote. "You cannot put the value of that too high. The problems of youth are more difficult to-day than ever before, and they are not going to be easier when this war is over. Cannot we, while these boys are in our charge do more by advice and training to see that when they enter the grown-up world they will have a reasonable chance? Cannot we, while keeping in the forefront our moral and spiritual ideals, take pains to see that our Scouts when they enter adult life shall have a real chance to reap the fruit of their training, and shall not get into the wrong groove, or into blind alleys which lead to a dead wall?"

He is Viscount St. Davids, 22.

And he is useful in more ways than one. When the padre wished that he had a mobile cinema for the troops in isolated spots, the batman bought the whole affair.

St. Davids was made a batman by the regimental sergeant-major because he happened to be the only man in a squad who could drive a car when the padre was in the need of assistance.

Italian Coal Ships Released And Trade Talks Are Resumed

London.—Great Britain patched up an incipient quarrel with Italy over detention of Italian coal ships during a week-end of diplomatic suspense in the European capitals.

Britain traded 13 grimy Italian coal ships with their cargoes of German coal for renewed trade negotiations with Rome. In return Italy agreed to import no more German coal by sea.

Authoritative sources expressed conviction the trade talks which will be renewed in Rome in a day or two would lead to a comprehensive agreement for an exchange of Welsh coal for Italian munitions, vegetables and fruits.

The decision was announced a few hours before Joachim von Ribbentrop, the German foreign minister, arrived in Rome for conversations with Premier Mussolini. It was taken as a diplomatic setback for Von Ribbentrop, who was expected to use the strained relations between Rome and London as an argument in favor of reactivation of the Rome-Berlin axis, which weakened considerably when Berlin signed its non-aggression pact with Moscow.

Rome despatches said the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, received the British ambassador, Sir Percy Loraine, Sunday, and was officially told of Britain's decision to release the colliers. At the same time Sir Percy was assured Italian ships, still at Netherlands and other ports to load coal from Germany would leave without their cargoes and that no other ships would be sent.

The British government gave orders to the navy to release the Italian ships when Giuseppe Bastianini, the Italian ambassador, assured Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax there had been a misunderstanding over the whole incident.

He told the foreign secretary Germany had already been paid for the coal loaded at Rotterdam, where the ships had been delayed by bad weather. He added that Italy understood fully the reasons for Britain's decision.

From Britain's point of view, observers said, the biggest feature of the coal "incident" was Italy's decision to renew trade talks. No compromise had been made on the principle of stopping German exports but on this particular consignment of coal it was thought better to permit it to go to Italy in return for Italy's promise to buy no more seaborne coal from the Reich and renew the trade talks with Britain.

Russian Freighters

Reported To Be Bound For Mexico To Load Lead And Copper

Mexico City.—Two Soviet Russian freighters were reported reliably to be en route to the Pacific coast port of Mazatlan to load Mexican lead and United States copper for Vladivostok.

The expected arrival of the freighters Minsk and Engels will follow the recent departure of two other Soviet vessels with similar cargoes, amounting to more than 12,000 tons.

Roumanian Resources Behind Her Army To Guarantee Borders

Bucharest.—King Carol II, opened a long session of the crown council amid signs of an even sharper struggle between the Allies and Germany for Roumania's surplus of raw materials.

Vice-Tilea, Roumanian minister to London, was reported on his way home to deliver a British proposal that Great Britain acceded equal treatment with Germany on Roumanian exports, including oil, the most coveted product.

On the other hand it was reported that German pressure on Roumania now included demand for the country's entire wool crop. The textile yarn industry would be ruined if such a demand were fulfilled, economic experts said.

Carol's statement was approved in

Raid On Maginot Line

German Raid Sector Held By British Expeditionary Forces

London.—The war office issued the following communiqué on the German raid on a Maginot line post of the British expeditionary force:

A raid on March 5 on a British post in a Maginot line sector took place under cover of a barrage of mortar and machine-gun fire at dawn. The enemy succeeded in entering the post, which was held by part of a platoon of infantry.

The platoon sergeant-major was killed in the post and suffered casualties during their withdrawal and machine-gun fire.

"Several of our men are missing."

The German news agency identified the platoon attacked as belonging to the Duke of Cornwall's light infantry. It asserted that this was the first time the Germans had had an encounter with British troops on the Western Front since 1918. It said the Germans lost one man.

A hectic exchange of hand grenades and artillery fire preceded the dugout storming, according to the news agency, and the English left 20 dead on the scene, while the Germans lost only one man.

The German shock troops' surprise attack was said by the agency to have disclosed that the British apparently were stationed at only one small point of the front line, flanked on both sides by the French.

Royal Air Force

Have Carried Out More Than 1,000 Raids In German Territory

London.—Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood told the House of Commons the Royal Air Force had carried out more than 1,000 sorties into German territory by day and night since the outbreak of war.

He said 44 German aircraft had been brought down around British coasts "without a single loss on our side."

Where last year the total strength of the air force approached 160,000 men, that is the strength to-day of one command alone.

Quota Is Filled

Canadian Fox Furs Barred From United States Until December 1

Washington.—No more silver or black fox furs can be imported from Canada before Dec. 1 or from other countries until April 1.

The customs bureau announced that Canada has exhausted its quota of 53,300 furs for the period ending Nov. 30. Other countries have filled their March quota, but for the period April 1-Nov. 30 a 7,400-fur share of their quota is unfilled.

Prisoners Of War

International Red Cross Places The Number At 750

Geneva.—The International Red Cross Prisoners' Bureau said that its list shows fewer than 300 Germans, 300 French and 150 British are held prisoners after more than six months of war.

Officials said they had "every reason to believe" their lists corrected up to recently, cover all soldiers, sailors and aviators captured by the three major powers to date.

Economic Co-operation

Great Britain And France Are In Complete Accord

London.—Great Britain and France took another long step toward complete economic co-operation when the major industrial associations of the two countries announced establishment of a joint council to synchronize all their foreign trade.

The Federation of British Industries and the Confédération Générale du Patronat Français (General Confederation of French Employers) issued the text of the agreement, making the two bodies for most purposes one single organization.

They agreed primarily to:

1. Encourage co-operation and eliminate competition among the individual industries of their respective countries, "as a permanent feature of economic relations between the two countries."

2. Support each other in maintaining their existing markets and developing their export trade, and collaborate in apportioning production.

3. Trade between themselves rather than with third countries wherever possible during the war.

4. Form a permanent Anglo-French industrial council to further the aims outlined in the agreement, promoting accords among complementary as well as among competing industries.

5. Re-establish and expand international trade after the war.

Call Out Reserves

Great Britain To Speed Mobilization Of Man Power

London.—Great Britain suddenly and unexpectedly sped up mobilization of armed man power by calling up 25-year-old reservists to the colors.

After Saturday a total of approximately 1,000,000 men will have been registered in Britain for military services since the start of the war. Of these about 600,000 already have been called to the colors.

The 25-year-old youths were registered only Feb. 17. About 250,000 are affected, some of them being ordered to report Friday. All will be absorbed in the armed forces within two weeks.

Meanwhile, the raw class of 24-year-old reservists, estimated at 300,000, will register Saturday.

May End Argument

Youngest Canadian In War Fifteen-Year-Old Toronto Boy

Toronto.—Maybe this will end the argument about who is the youngest member of the Canadian Active service Force. Private Alex C. Berwick of the Toronto Scottish regiment, now in England, celebrated his 15th birthday with his regiment at Aldershot last January.

Berwick's family here explained that he boy joined a few weeks before war broke out and the youngster, big for his age, received permission to go overseas when the unit left Canada.

THE ALTMARK'S "PRISONERS" ARRIVE BACK HOME

This picture, received from England via airmail, shows some of the liberated British prisoners from the German "hell" ship Altmark, walking off the quay at the Scottish port where they were taken by the British destroyer Cossack which rescued them. The story of the rescue of these 300 British seamen from the German prison ship is one of the most thrilling stories in British naval history, and the incident caused quite a diplomatic flurry. The Cossack invaded Norwegian waters to stop the German ship after Norwegian authorities had denied that any British prisoners were aboard the Altmark.

Australian Army Program

Plan To Establish A Reserve Of 90,000 Men

Sydney, Australia.—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies disclosed that the government plans to despatch an army corps for overseas service, to establish a reserve of 90,000 men and to call up for home training at least 25,000 and possibly 50,000 men.

The vast scope of the Australian program was indicated by the fact that its cost is estimated to be at least $561,000,000, spread over two years, or three times the cost of the corresponding period of the Great War.

Mr. Menzies said the Australian air force would be strengthened to seven times its size in 1939 and that by June, 1942, 17,000 people will be employed in munitions factories superceding Australia and New Zealand, but Great Britain.

Australia has already sent troops to the Near East.

Admits Being A Spy

Netherlands Subject Told Court About Aid Given To Germany

Rotterdam.—The Netherlands government will strengthen its anti-espionage service and stiffen penalties against foreign spies. Justice Minister P. S. Gerbrandy told parliament as a spy trial ended here.

P. Bakker, 47-year-old Netherlands subject, told the court he had broadcast weather reports to Germany with a portable transmitter given him by Nazi agents. He also admitted receiving 310 florins (about $81) a month from Germany and having served as a German spy in France during the last war.

He was tried with W. H. Heinrich Dreher, editor of the Westdeutsche Presse Dienst of Essen, a German news service. Police testified they found documents containing instructions for Bakker in Dreher's bag.

Negotiate Treaties

United States Wants Conciliation Treaties With British Dominion

Washington.—The United States is negotiating treaties of conciliation with Canada, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand.

The treaties will provide that any dispute arising between the United States and a Dominion shall be referred to a permanent conciliation commission, to be composed of five members. There will be separate commissions for each Dominion.

The treaties may become of more than ordinary significance because all four Dominions are at war with Germany. Hence, it is possible that difficulties arising out of the present economic warfare will create disputes requiring conciliation.

The United States has a conciliation treaty with Great Britain but its references to the Dominions are now regarded as out of date.

Chilean Mine Disaster

Over Three Hundred Miners Believed Killed And Many Injured

Coronel, Chile.—Three hundred and two miners were killed and 98 injured in a coal damp explosion at the Schwager mine here.

Five hundred men were working in the pit at the time of the explosion. Mine officials said 100 had escaped unharmed, 98 were brought to the surface with injuries and 302 were believed dead.

Rescue squads fought flames 500 feet below the surface.

Property damage was estimated at about $2,000,000.

Pealed For Industrial Peace

Halifax.—Premier Angus L. Macdonald pleaded for "industrial peace" in Nova Scotia as he continued the debate on the speech from the throne in the provincial legislature. All the efforts of the province's newly-created ministry of industry to induce capital to come to Nova Scotia were vain unless there was hope of "industrial peace".

Copper From Tasmania

Hobart, Tasmania.—Surplus copper to a specified tonnage will be supplied by the British government by the Mount Lyell mines here. The quantity may be as much as 7,000 tons a year.

Hungarian Nazis

Budapest.—Sixty members of the Hungarian Nazi party have been arrested on charges of plotting against members of the government.

Britain And France Pass Germany On Air Force Expansion

London.—It is unofficially reported in London that the army and navy have been seeking control of the air force insofar as it supports their various activities.

Great Britain and France have passed legislation on the basis of numerical expansion of their air forces, Sir Kingsley Wood, secretary of state for air, declared in the House of Commons. On the basis of the House of Commons, the Allies are far ahead.

Sir Kingsley won a point against army control Jan. 9 when the cabinet announced that R.A.F. units in France would be unified under Air Marshal A. S. Barratt rather than under army command. Marshal Barratt consults with Viscount Gort, commander of the field forces.

Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, is understood to want the R.A.F. coastal patrol placed under admiralty rule.

This force, assigned to ward off German raiders, acts in liaison with the navy, and is under command of Air Marshal Sir Frederick Bowhill.

Its problems were extended when German planes made the first nocturnal raids of the war. Two German bombers and machine-gunned the 695-ton British liner Shelby II, and lighted off the Norfolk coast broadcast an SOS during a similar attack.

A delayed report of another large British tanker sunk by submarine action was relayed from Amsterdam, where the newspaper Shipping News quoted as saying the San Floriano, 12,842 tons, had been torpedoed off Land's End.

If she was destroyed, she would be the sixth largest merchant ship loss of the war. She was almost as large as the torpedoed British liner Athena.

The 530-foot vessel is owned by the Eagle Oil and Shipping Company, Limited, of London. She was built in 1919 at Newcastle. Her beam measured 68 feet and she had a depth of 42 feet.

The use of printed matter is one of the most forceful factors in advertising, and can be used to great advantage. People respond far more readily to sales appeals which are well printed.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

PREMIER, Attorney-General, Minister of Education, selector of candidates, judge and jury, are just a few of the offices held by our premier. If it were possible, he would do away with the legislature and reign supreme, with a controlled press and his own police force. This is not an exaggerated picture, for you have merely to review the premier's conduct since 1935 to confirm it. That voice of hypocrisy which in one breath exhorts the people not to say harsh things of each other, and then pours forth the most filthy abuse on his opponents is sufficient to cause one to revolt at such a personage attempting to impose his will on the province.

If you want to get down to grass roots politics, you have to sit in at a farmers' meeting. Last week at Pincher station the Aberhart government was given a thorough going over, and one speaker recounted attending a meeting in Pincher Creek in 1935, when the premier and his henchmen were making those wild promises which in the light of four and a half years futility appear so ridiculous. He stated that when a member of the audience questioned the ability of any political party to pay monthly dividends of $25, Rev. Roy Taylor, the member who has recently been given the "go-by," arose and asked if he could explain.

To the questioner, he exclaimed, "You simply don't understand this plan; it is God's plan, and it must work." This raised loud guffaws of laughter.

Of course this is old stuff now, and though it might be a waste of time recounting all the foolishness that was peddled in those days, and even now is still being foisted via the radio by an irate and befuddled premier, it serves to show how people will fall for emotional propaganda which often is termed "beautiful sunshine," "moonshine" or "shooting the bull."

In those days Mr. Aberhart exhort the people to sink old party differences, and get in on the journey to the "promised land," where Social Credit dreams would be made true and a little bird would leave a cheque for $25 on your pillow every month. Now people are again sinking their party differences, but with an entirely different objective to that of 1935, and Mr. Aberhart styles them as "polywogs, double-dealing gossip mongers, depraved reprobates, etc." Oh, what a God-like man is Mr. Aberhart!

REALLY, if you would get the real atmosphere of the farmers and their opinion of Social Credit, you should attend a farmers' meeting. If Pincher district is a fair sample of the rural districts of Alberta, as it undoubtedly is, then one can come to the conclusion that the Aberhart government is definitely on the way out.

PREMIER ABERHART boasts that Alberta has not borrowed any money during his term of office. The reason is that the credit of the province has been wrecked and it is impossible for the government to borrow, even if it required to, for its word cannot be trusted. As an instance of how such a condition has worked against the province, under the National Housing Act people in every face and blotter surfacing.

province except Alberta have been loaned a total of $51,599,884 to build new homes. In Alberta people living in towns, and in Coleman, are clamoring for new homes, but cannot borrow the money under the National Housing Act because of Premier Aberhart's repudiation of contractual obligations. It is indeed time for a change in government.

THERE IS ever present the danger of getting into a trap. This we are always reminded of in glancing over Main street. It is not attractive, and much could be done by individual initiative to improve it. Lack of self-criticism, or trying to see ourselves as others see us, is responsible for the unattractive appearance of Main street. Now that spring is here, would not be a good time to do some "face-lifting" and polishing up. The whip and spur of competition can do much, even make an old man young again. "The public does not live by bread alone; it wants color, light, beauty, completeness." It wants the business places to be as modern as itself. Some store windows repel rather than attract.

A N EXAMPLE of merging war charities appeal into one campaign is being demonstrated in Vancouver. The Canadian Legion, the Salvation Army and the Y.M.C.A. had planned separate campaigns with an objective of $250,000. By merging their appeals into one campaign to be held in mid-April, the result is a 20 per cent. cut. Expenses are so reduced that $200,000 only is required, a saving of $50,000 in campaign expenses. It is an example which might well be followed throughout the Dominion from the largest city to the smallest town or village.

ENTHUSIASTIC support for C. J. Tompkins, independent candidate, is rapidly growing throughout the Pincher Creek-Crows Nest constituency.

On Friday last he met the Pincher Creek committee at that town, and a very enthusiastic and loyal group of supporters, including the ladies, who have organized their own committee and who on Saturday afternoon are holding a tea, when Mr. Tompkins will give a brief address.

Among the ladies taking a leading part there are Mrs. F. T. Edwards, Mrs. F. O. McKenna, Mrs. Lancaster and many others who are determined to rally all the support possible to Mr. Tompkins' candidature.

MR. DUKE says it is an insult to him that a Labor candidate was nominated in this constituency. Many may reciprocate in feeling the same about Mr. Duke.

SOCIAL CREDIT speakers do not worry about sticking to the truth. Mr. Duke claims the S.C. government made possible the check-off system for unions and forced operators to install weighing machines to ensure miners being given proper weight for their coal. This is amusing to those who know these things were in effect years before Social Credit was blown in the wind.

OUR so-called surfaced highway is badly in need of repairs between the Pass towns. There's a difference between hard surface and blotter surfacing.

ARMS PROGRAM TO END BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT

LONDON—Britain's arms program will not absorb the present workers' army of 1,300,000, but will also demand another factory force at least equal to that figure, experts believe.

They believe that before the war ends more than 500,000 women not now in employment will join the factories.

There will be a vast change affecting large sections of the population before the British munitions drive is able to reach its peak, for it will be essential to bring to the arms effort practically all the black-coated workers whose jobs are not important to the current war.

For the moment, it is intended to keep the labor situation on a voluntary basis, but it is believed that if voluntary arrangements fail the government will not hesitate to take its own means to see that skilled labor is adequately distributed and that proper recruitment takes place.

Already there are shortages of skilled labor. The labor reserve in the engineering trade, for example is insignificant, compared with present munition needs and the tremendous demands for the future.

When the call comes, many will probably be asked to work at jobs which need what has been their "hobby" skill.

Will Albertans Suffer Longer Under Social Credit Rule?

Edmonton Correspondent Reviews
Political Affairs and Coming Election on March 21st—
Independents Gain Support Throughout the Province

EDMONTON, Alta.—The final phase of Alberta's election campaign is under way this week, with the scores of candidates for the legislature's 57 seats filing their official nominations Monday.

The election on Thursday of next week will be the most critical in the province's history with Albertans themselves deciding what kind of legislature and government they are going to have for the next five years of war-time and, it is hoped, of post-war planning.

The question boiled down, they said, to these alternatives: Whether Albertans are going to continue under the party rule of the Social Credit, with its promises of basic dividends and its claims of "protection" but its performance of heavily increased taxation and its isolation of Alberta from outside confidence and development, or whether Albertans are going to send non-party representatives to the legislature, each man free to follow his own convictions without fear of disciplinary or hope of party ballyhoo.

Although there are three dozen C.C.F. candidates in the field, there is little possibility of enough of them being elected to have a majority in the legislature and the right to form a government themselves, it is acknowledged in political circles here. The chief contest is between the Social Credit party machine throughout the province and the Independent candidate in each constituency.

The fact that the Independent candidate in practically all constituencies has cut deeply into Social Credit support, so obviously that Independents are expected to sweep the south and take many of the northern seats as well, was emphasized last week by renewed attack by William Aberhart and his organization against the Independent cause. A new propaganda pamphlet, entitled "The Money Power's Plan for Alberta," alleged that "financial interests" are backing the Independents and pledging them to restore full bond interest charges and "permit seizure of property." The pamphlet contradicted itself, however, by predicting that the "legislature of Independents will be disunited where it will have no united policy."

The most interesting point about the pamphlet was the note that it was published and perhaps paid for by the Social Credit League, instead of being printed at the expense of the public treasury like most of the previous propaganda of the Social Credit party. Political wiseacres considered it vicious but ineffective propaganda, because the voters in each constituency know the man whom they have nominated as Independent candidate, and know that he is working for no one and responsible to no one except the electors in his own riding.

In spite of the seriousness of the Social Credit party seeking to help itself politically by publishing false propaganda at the expense of the public treasury in "The Records Tell the Story," there was amusement last week at an explanation given for the false figures and other misstatements contained in that pamphlet. J. H. Unwin, Social Credit whip and M.L.A. for Edson, and candidate for that seat again, stated solemnly that the falsehoods in the propaganda were put in there by a "Liberal stenographer" employed in the parliament buildings. He did not attempt to explain how the false statements escaped editing and proof-reading and then appeared again in a "revised" and reprinted issue of the pamphlet.

Figures on taxation, revenue and expenditures are juggled cleverly in both editions of the booklet, but few electors could know it because copies of the provincial official public accounts to check them are scarce and expensive.

The most obvious falsehood in the pamphlet, repeated in the revised edition, is the claim that the boundaries of Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec have been extended to the Arctic circle, and "why not Alberta's?" A glance at the map of Canada shows that Manitoba's most northerly point is exactly the same as Alberta's, that Ontario's is on a level with McMurray, Alberta, and that Quebec extends 250 miles further north than Alberta

TO WIN BUSINESS

It is imperative that you advertise in your local weekly newspaper. With every competitive form of advertising coming into town, catalogues, flyers, etc., from mail order houses, you must advertise if you are to get your share of local business. Sitting down and grumbling about business going elsewhere will do you no good. Show Coleman people that you, too, are aggressive, and tell them what you have to sell through your best local advertising medium — The Journal. It has the closest touch and will undoubtedly increase your sales.

Horse Too Faithful.

AUSTIN, Texas—A faithful horse led to the downfall of its owner in Cherokee County, State Liquor Control Board inspectors report.

Found tethered near the spot where officers had captured a 50-gallon still, the animal was mounted by an inspector who gave it its head.

Through a brush trail, with the rest of the raiders following, the horse led, finally coming to a stop at a farmhouse where its owner was arrested on a conspiracy charge.

F. O. McKENNA
Liberal Candidate
For the Federal Constituency of Macleod

Mr. F. O. MCKENNA, of Pincher Creek, contested this constituency in the Federal election campaign of 1935, when the Social Credit avalanche carried the day. He finds that in the present campaign there is striking evidence of greatly increased interest in the policies of the Liberal party under Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, for wherever he has addressed meetings there have been large numbers from town and country present.

Mr. McKenna has been a resident of the district since 1924. He came west in 1913 from Prince Edward Island, receiving his earlier education at Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, the capital of the Island. He took his degree in law from the University of Alberta, being subsequently articled to the firm of Savary and Fenerty, Calgary, whom, he recently remarked, were both Conservatives. His law practice was established in Bow Island, and in 1924 he opened an office in Pincher Creek, where he has always been a staunch advocate of the Liberal party.

Today, unfortunately, a public meeting is being held at Black Diamond in support of his candidature, which will be addressed by Senator W. A. B. Auchan, of Lethbridge.

Mr. McKenna is endeavoring to meet as many electors as possible, the constituency includes such a wide area that it is impossible to more than scratch the surface in such a short campaign. His office has been encouraged by the support he has received on his visits to the Pass towns and the rural areas of the Macleod electoral district. His official agent is Mr. T. Neil Nicholson, of North Fork, a well-known rancher and old-timer of the foothills.

Keep Canada's War Effort United!

Experienced Leaders are

VITAL for VICTORY

In six months of war the Mackenzie King Administration has set an unprecedented record of getting things done without fuss and fury. Under its steady leadership, Canada has gone ahead on all fronts—war, economic and domestic. With clear heads and feet on the ground, this group of purposeful men is making every ounce of Canada's weight felt in our fight for freedom. What it has done has been done thoroughly; there has been no loose thinking; no half-measures; no waste of men, money or materials.

Some of the Mackenzie King Administration Wartime Accomplishments

It united Canada as never before—Every province is heart and soul behind the Empire's war effort this time, thanks to the Administration's truly national policies.

The First Division, completely equipped, has been sent overseas to a Mother country prepared to receive it.

The Second Division is recruited, equipped and ready to go over.

The great Empire Air Training Scheme—sponsored and mainly financed by Canada, has been launched on a planned and ordered basis.

Naval Defence for both East and West Coasts including Air Force, Mine Sweepers and Convoying has functioned efficiently since the formation of the Royal Canadian Naval Authority has said, "No other work is being done anywhere by the Royal Navy itself."

Price Control of all commodities, including such vital necessities as wool and sugar, has been established, with prices pegged low for the poor man. The profit is out, and will be kept out—in marked contrast to the free-for-all of the last war.

Shipping Control and Foreign Exchange Control are firmly established on sound lines and are functioning smoothly and effectively.

A $200,000,000 War Loan was subscribed within two days of its launching, a record that proves public confidence in the reasonable rate of 3½% contrasts with 5½% tax-free rate of the last war.

Political and Private Patronage has been stamped out; merit is the sole basis for selection or promotion in our armed forces.

On March 26th show your faith; vote for the Candidate supporting Mackenzie King and help make sure there can be no break in Canada's steadfast stand in these critical times.

Help the Red Shield campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman MacAulay visited at Lethbridge and Calgary for a few days this week. They were accompanied to Lethbridge by Mrs. W. L. Rippin who returned home on Tuesday afternoon.

Weather permitting, a game between the Pass Intermediate All Stars and Canadians will be played at the arena on Sunday evening. Following the game the arena will be closed for the season.

Mrs. George Brown was hostess at a miscellaneous shower at her home on Thursday in honor of Miss Wilma Halliwell, bride-elect. Fifteen guests were present, games and contests being enjoyed. Prize winners were Mrs. Harold Reid and Mrs. H. T. Halliwell. The guest of honor was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Canadian Legion have sent every Coleman soldier stationed at Calgary two pairs socks, writing pad and envelopes, cigarettes and chocolates. A whisky drive is being sponsored by the auxiliary on Saturday night, the proceeds of which will be used to send further comforts to the Coleman soldiers.

Announcement

Mrs. H. T. Halliwell will receive from 3 to 6 p.m. on Saturday, March 16, in honor of her daughter Wilma, whose marriage takes place this month.

An outbreak of the disease may occur in Alberta this season.

VACCINATION

with Chick Vaccine is the only preventative.
PROCEDURE:

1. Vaccinate before seeding.
2. Two doses are required, given seven to fourteen days apart.
3. The Vaccine is available at Drug Stores, or may be obtained from Veterinarians, and some Municipal Districts may handle it.
4. If a qualified Veterinarian is not available, the Vaccine should be administered by some other person trained by a Veterinarian. Farmers wishing to do so many obtain a syringe and learn how to vaccinate their own horses.

Vaccine is effective only when administered prior to the outbreak of the disease.

IN THE ANCIENT ROMAN EMPIRE

In 400 B.C. beer was popular with the Armenians, while during the first century of the Christian era the Germans and the natives of West Europe (Spain and Gaul) improved the process, and beer made from barley and malt was the popular drink. The Romans were also brewers of beer. Barley was known to them says Virgil, who uses it in the plural form "horde." Beer and vinegar were the drinks of Caesar's soldiers.

SWIFT'S EASTER CAMPAIGN THIS WEEK

Attention is directed to the page advertisement of Swift's famous Premium ham, bacon and other products, which are on sale in many Coleman stores. This campaign is conducted every year from coast to coast, and has resulted in an ever increasing sale of Swift's products.

Mr. Milton Bay, of Fernie, is the salesman in charge of this territory, and by his energetic efforts has done much to stimulate interest in the Pass towns from Fernie to Salmon Creek. Coleman people are urged to make their purchases early, and they will find every choice stocks available for the Easter season.

PILGRIM'S PROGRESS

OF 1940

(A woman's modernized version)

I dreamed, and behold I saw a man, poorly clothed, standing in a certain place, a Blue Manual in his hand and a great burden on his back. I looked and saw him open the book and read therein, as if for comfort, and as he read he wept and trembled, and at length broke out with a lamentable cry, saying, "What shall I do?"

A man named Independent Thinker approached him, saying, "Wherefore dost thou cry?"

"I am weighed down with worry," answered the Citizen. "My burden is becoming so heavy from added taxes that I cannot go on as and I read from my Social Credit Manual I, regretfully have been deceived."

When he spoke again, the Thinker said, "If this be thy condition, why standest thou still?"

"Because I know not whether to go. I have also read the 'Records Tell the Story' and I am confused," was the answer.

Then the Thinker gave him a booklet, "The Truth About The Records," and wrote a warning thereon, "Pee from the wrath to come."

"Whither must I flee?" questioned the Citizen.

"See yonder shining light," asked the Thinker. "That leads back to Sane Thinking, and they will tell you there what to do."

And the Citizen began to run, so anxious was he to be free from his burden of worry and taxes. Two of his neighbors, Oldtimers and Pliable, who believed in the "Records Tell the Story," resolved to fetch him back by force to the City of Destruction, where they all had been living for the past five years.

They chased together, and the Citizen asked for a ride from his own book, since it proved the falsehood of theirs, but Pliable cried, "Away with your book! Our leader says that a book is gospel truth except for a few misprints. Will you come back with us or no?"

"Because not I," said the Citizen, "because I have turned my face toward Sanity."

Obstinate went back, but Pliable offered to accompany the Citizen and bring him back to a maypole, the wooden bog where the Leader got his choicest words for broadcasts. The name of the slough was Despond and because of the poisonous fumes that rose from the mire, the Citizen could not stand upright on his back, the Citizen began to sink.

Pliable hastily backed out and turned right back to the City of Destruction, but the other pilgrim plodded bravely on until he came to the gate of Sane Thinking and here he was shown the straight and narrow path that led to the Citizen began to sink.

"Are there no turnings by which a stranger may lose his way?" asked the Citizen.

"Yes," said the other, "there are ways, round and wide, straight with many diversions, valueless promises and wild promises; but pay no heed to these, for they will lead you right back to the City of Destruction."

And on plodded the Citizen, irked more than ever by his heavy burden, now that he had read the "Truth About The Records," and the highway along which he had to go was fenced with a great wall, called Good Judgment.

The foul air that permeated the City of Destruction was forgotten in the cool, invigorating atmosphere, and the Citizen breathed long and deeply of its goodness, the great burden loosed from his shoulders and fell from his back. Then was the Citizen glad, righteously glad, even as he rejoiced he saw a warning, "Electoral Head and Difficult Hill."

While resting on this hill he slept and had little sleep, the "Truth About The Records" drowsed in his hand.

At the summit of the hill he met two men, Timorous and Mistrust. They said they were returning because they had heard the Leader roaring about the Sane and the Bogeys—Men of Old.

"Think for yourselves," cried the Citizen. "Don't allow the Leader to dictate. You are free men if you will be free men. If you will not let him hold in his bosom for his little book, then, but finding it gone, he hurried back and searched until he had found it. In the meantime the citizen had advanced a short way when he espied a foul fiend, hideous to behold, coming to meet him. It was the terrible creature known as Hypocrisy, and the frightened and trembling pilgrim, who had been so long in the company of the Leader, was about to turn tail and run.

While resting on this hill he slept and had little sleep, the "Truth About The Records" drowsed in his hand.

Then the Citizen went on through the Valley of Humiliation, but he had advanced a short way when he espied a foul fiend, hideous to behold, coming to meet him. It was the terrible creature known as Hypocrisy, and the frightened and trembling pilgrim, who had been so long in the company of the Leader, was about to turn tail and run.

Now, Vanity Fair was filled with pompous, boasting officials who loudly acclaimed their good works, and when they found that the two pilgrims were indeed on their way to the Sane, they immediately became suspicious and brought them before a mock court and berated them vilenly. The evidence against them was given by Mr. Envy, Mr. Superstition and Mr. Pickthanks, and the court, after a long session, thought that they were small-town citizens, they must be tools of Big Interests. They sentenced Faithful to death and the Citizen to imprisonment.

But the Citizen escaped and, accompanied by Hopeful, he went on his way, being tempted by One-Hundred-run down and the rear of Dollar Dividends on the hill known as Laure, and was imprisoned in Doubting Castle by the great Despair. However, even the giant Despair could not avenge him from his intention of making his way back to Sane and with Hopeful, the Citizen soon found himself more heading toward the Elections.

And then they met more independent thinkers known as Knowledge, Experience, Watchfulness and Sincerity, and they gave Citizen good counsel as to how he should proceed to his Citizen and Hopeful proceeded, and long they stood upon the brink of the river Election. Up and down its shores a horde of persons wended their way, some hesitating, but the majority hopped steppid off to the crossing.

The soft glow of Sane suddenly burst into the full sun of a new day and its penetrating light lit up the place of the Sane. Goodness knew not its like. Neighbor helped neighbor with neighbor and realized what a cruel thing the past five years had done in destroying friendships, and as the sun shone, with its imprint on the shining white edifice which was arising, built by Sane judgments upon the ashes of broken promises, deceit, greed, favoritism and hypocrisy, the ruins of that strange and unexplainable thing, known as Social Credit.

Starting in the withering cold of the dusk before dawn, they reached McQueen's camp two nights before. Searching the brush and snow Alan and Noel looked everywhere for a message from Heath, but found only her small moccasin prints in the snow. Later in the morning, Alan, who was ahead of the team watching for treacherous ice over quick-water, suddenly stopped, gazing intently upstream. The dogs moved up to him and lay down. "Ham me the glasses," he called to Noel at the rear of the sled.

Taking the binoculars from where they lay beside three rifles in skin cases, lashed to the wrapping lines, Noel brought them to Alan. As he looked through the glasses, a nameless fear sliced through Cameron like a knife thrust.

"Something dark—on the trail ahead," he faltered. "Wolverines at something—dark—on the trail—"

Handing the glasses to his friend, Alan went to the sled for his rifle. "March, Rough!" he called in a strained voice. The team sprang to its feet and breaking out the sled where it had started to freeze in the snow, Alan pressed ahead on the run.

As they approached, the yellowish-brown, long-bodied beast watched him for a space, then, hearing the dark thing on the trail, set off to the shore. Raising the sights on his rifle, Alan leaped, took careful aim and fired. One of the bullets fell, rose and fell again, to hit still, made the most of it. On through the short day he mercilessly drove himself and his team, trotting over the good going of the swift river ice and lifting and hauling at the heavy sled up over the boulder-piled shores where the river was still open or the ice dangerous. Blinded by snow constantly masking their tortured faces, bucking the deep drifts of the portages, panting men and dogs pushed on and on until the black night felt like a tent and drove them to shelter.

At dawn the wind had blown itself out and the snow stopped. Staff in every muscle from the long strain, Alan dragged himself out of his sleeping bag, the pinched face in his hood black from frostbite and his lips cracked from the two days in the stinging wind and snow.

gazed into each other's startled eyes.

"Naskapi?"

"By gar! Das es bad—vere bad!"

"If they're headed up river far, they're going to strike his trail where he started in the young snow after the drifter! They'll follow him and sneak on his camp!" Cameron's frost-burned face grew.

"Mabey dey not hold to de riviere." "They will and we've got to over haul them, Noel—travel all night! If the Naskapi get her, my God! It's too horrible! We've got to reach her, Noel, if we kill ourselves and the dogs!"

Advance in Surgery

Fractured Collar Bone Can Now Be "Wired" For Quick Recovery

A Toronto General Hospital surgeon has developed a new "wiring" operation whereby the use of a fractured collarbone is restored within an hour, the Evening Telegram said.

Method of the surgeon, member of the University of Toronto department of surgery and who prefers to remain anonymous, has been used also in the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children with complete success, the paper said.

In the operation, a small cut is made in the skin over the collarbone and a wire of fine steel is threaded into the spongey centre of the collarbone. The fractured ends are manipulated until they are in a normal position and the wire is carried through, holding the fracture together. A patient finds after the operation that he can move his arm and shoulder without pain.

The old method of repairing the fracture is to tape and bandage the shoulder and arm for a period of three to five weeks. During this time neither arm nor shoulder could be used.

North Pole Search

Sir Hubert Wilkins Plans To Use A Rocket Submarine

Sir Hubert Wilkins, Australian explorer, is on his way to western Canada with plans to reach the North Pole in a rocket submarine, either up through the Mackenzie river or north along the Pacific coast.

If the Mackenzie route to the Arctic is practical, Sir Hubert intends to assemble his submarine at Edmonton during the summer months. Otherwise, he will build it on the Pacific coast and enter the Arctic through the Bering straits. Sir Hubert told reporters the war had caused abandonment of his plans to build a 120-foot submarine. Instead, he will construct one measuring 48 feet in length by 8½ feet in diameter. Manned by four men, the craft will have an electrically heated conning tower with which to melt its way through pack ice.

Sir Hubert said that while in the Arctic he planned to study marine biology and meteorology.

Just off the press is that new book of McK. H. M. Alkens named "52 Cakes!"

There's a great deal of work in getting up such a book and it has been a success. It has been tested by a number of professional cooks as well as ordinary housekeepers to see that they get the same results.

McK. H. M. Alkens is asked from our readers—just send in a label from any Canada Starch product like Crown Brand Corn Starch, Benson's Flour, French Canape, Canadian Starch, etc., for "52 ways" or "52 Baking Secrets."

One label for each booklet—and you can have all four for four labels addressed to Canada Starch Home Service, Dept. W.N.U., P.O. Box 12, Montreal, Que.

Helping The Red Cross

Halibut Drive Netted Twenty Dollars
Prairie Town Fund

Many have been the ways devised by Canadians to raise money for the Canadian Red Cross, but the residents of Antler, Sask., made an unusual pest pay dividends.

More than 157 rabbits were chased into a specially-built corral by men and women who covered an area of approximately one mile in their search for the bunnies, the sale of which netted $20. The money will be added to the Red Cross money already gathered by Antler residents.

When printed in Braille type for use of the blind, "Don Quixote", the famous satirical novel, fills 12 volumes and weighs more than 40 pounds.

"Man can do no wrong."

"Right. If there's a mistake made at home, it's his wife's fault, and there's one made at the office, it's his secretary."

"I hear you've got a new maid."

"Yes—the last one handled China as if she were Japan."

"Fresh trail made this morning," said Alan.

"How far do you guess we travelled in that drifter, Noel?" he asked the Indian who limped as he brought the fire for the fire.

"Eet was an gain?" McQueen never move. "We travel forty-four miles for sure. Oh-oh!" groaned Noel, dropping the wood to rub a leg. "I got de mal-racquette!"

"I'm stiff as a spruce stick," myself," replied the other. "Wreck my shoulder with all that lifting. Let's have a look at the dogs! Here, Rough, Shot!"

Slowly the dogs responded to the calls of their master. One after another they broke from their snow-blankets to shake themselves but the iron bodies of the Ungavas were still, all but blood and thaws and bone and, along with the men, had paid the penalty of the two days' battle with the drifts and the up-hill slavery of the river shores.

Poor Shot, who had never faltered when asked for the last ounce of his strength, limped around with a wrenching shoulder. The foot-sore Rogue and Powder, growing thinner day by day, hobbled on stiff legs. The veteran Rough, lean as a lynx still carried his plume of a tail bravely arched above his back, but he failed to frisk and roll in the snow at the call of Alan. The "drifter" had taken its toll of the Ungavas.

But that day the sun in a leaden sky, and, later, the warning of the ringed moon flicked the men with fear. In the night they wereaked and the rest of the "drifter" that lay across barrens and river valley, burying their camp in snow. When they rolled out of their drifting sleeping-bags, the fire was out and four white mounds marked the spots where the dogs slept, and from which they burst, when called, in showers of snow, as a salmon leaps like a knife thrust.

"Worked to the bone, Noel! He's driving them to the limit!"

Noel pointed to the rugged Ungavas panting on the trail, still in the pink of condition, their coats shimmering with vitality. "Look at dem! Dey are good as we've start! Das ees from plenty grub. Een tree four day, dey show McQueen how dry can travel."

But that day the sun in a leaden sky, and, later, the warning of the ringed moon flicked the men with fear.

When they rolled out of their drifting sleeping-bags, the fire was out and four white mounds marked the spots where the dogs slept, and from which they burst, when called, in showers of snow, as a salmon leaps like a knife thrust.

"They're pretty stiff, Noel, but we've got to go on—on!" insisted Noel.

He made the dogs lie on their backs, feet in the air, while he and Noel examined their shaggy bodies, banded with muscles like wire cables, and searched their paws for pad cracks and balled snow between the toes which would cripple them. Then, over the young snow left by the team, the sled pushed up the river, drawn by its crippled team, and led by two men with tightened belts, and in them the men pinched faces, the fire of desperation.

Toward noon Noel, who was in the lead, raised his hand, stopping the team, then pointed to the shore ahead. The two men tore their rifles from their cases.

"Fresh trail, made this morning," said Alan. "But that can't be McQueen. He's a day ahead of us yet, if he never moved in the blow. Let's have a look at it!"

They started the team and soon reached the toboggan trail which led down from the spruce through the alders and over the heaped snow to the river ice. Back tracking to shore, the two men stared in amazement at the bear-paw, snow-shoe prints in the new snow—then

"THE REAL GLORY"

We have been doing a heap of listening lately, being sort of marooned out on the ranch because of the weather, and you know it's darned disconcerting to have to sit and listen to some fellow sputtering over the radio when there's no way of getting in touch with the outside world.

We heard the provincial boss of the C.C.F. expounding his gospel the other night, and you know he sure was a-going to have us all fixed up with debt-free farms and what not, but the only thing that we could get charged too much for stuff and, by golly, it looked like we were just going to have the head of the bovine herd running to the town-hall pull till the cows came home. Presently, however, some bombastic broad cast and knocked the whole thing plumb to thunder by using much the same language that he made so much fun of '35. It's a good show, sir! He wanted to know "where's the money coming from?"—believe it or not, Mr. Ripley.

Now ain't it just too bad that these two phoney bastards are going to be fighting each other when it's as plain as the washboards on our public-purified highways that if these two fellows could just get together, the mortgage could be paid off and industry nationalized, and Our Premier,

Breezy Comment from North Fork Sage Brush Expresses Pertinent Thoughts on Our "Hired Help" at Edmonton

who has the only writing implement in the Empire that drips financial ink, would get the shot with his fountain pen.

Seems to be a lack of co-operation somewhere, or else our old co-operation don't just define the word in such a way that our 13-year-old mentality can understand it. Seems like our Premier just doesn't know what he's talking about and we can't just figure out the reason. We are not kicking about being joined up with our good friends of the Pass—no sirre!—they're a good friendly bunch and we get together. They sometimes come out fishing of a Sunday, and we never could figure out why our government should have to pay their fisherman so much. Why you know a boy last summer that had caught a couple of fish and you know those fish had been inspected and measured so much they were all wore down to the backbone.

And we heard our Premier say the other night that he'd just get back from a tour of the province, but we didn't see anything of him, and we're sure it couldn't have been the roads that stopped him, for we got their own word for it that they were just "beweeded" last summer. Of course, "I have no doubt we did oppose his Production Tax Act and consequently suppose we are guilty of obstructing the wheels of progress, but we just couldn't seem to entertain the idea of giving up seven per cent of our calves for the sake of helping."

We live kind of close to Nature out here, and some of our ideas might appear rather primitive to our Premier, but we've observed that we can learn a lot of lessons from the habits of our animals. I don't know what for instance; if she wants to get up a hill she doesn't stand blating at it for a day or so and then barge ahead, knocking over everything in sight, and try to go up the steepest part.

No sir, she just ambles along, not making much trouble, and if you follow her trail you'll find she has obtained her objective by the most accessible route. And you know when we feed our hens in the morning they pick around awhile and then quietly clucking to themselves as if it were a great joke, their slide on the nest, and when they stand and gaze on the results of their efforts, they start to cackle as much as to say—"Here's your dividend, come and get it!" And we always know when we hear them cackle that it ain't just merely a promise. Of course, we do have the odd "biddy" that lays down on the job and becomes a boarder, but it's sort of gratifying to observe that she doesn't stay and fall into the habit of trying to lay any old fowl with her hibernation. We don't find much profit keeping boarders like this around very long; we sort of let them get fat, and then we get an idea that this same system ought to work pretty good if applied to our legislative hired help, and although it has taken quite a spell to get on to the track, I believe we're getting there. We have had to considerably expense in fattening up the boarders, we reckon on that we will do quite a bit of sorting out on March 21 and get back on a more productive basis. —W.R.C.
